

One day I'll go to Goa
I'll get a tattoo,
Sit by the water and pretend to read a book
The weather will be nice, you can join me too

Some parts of the world will be falling apart
But not in front of us, not our world, not today
This is our day to lay back and relax
To enjoy the passing time and the serene view at display

I may have goals to achieve, people to please
Better places to be at, more productive things to do
But today, I left everything behind
To be here and live like nothing exists but me and you

One day I'll go to Goa
